

Raleigh ED&I alongside Wake County Economic Development exhibited at All Things Open, an open source, open tech, and open web conference, in October to promote Raleigh as a technology and innovation hub to businesses and talent. More than 100 people stopped by the booth to learn more about the advantages of living, working and doing business in our market.